Lame defence of largest delegation to COP28 in Dubai

The effort by Partisans, Cashtivists and the apparatchiks of Government to defend the indefensible is gross disservice to nation. A nation stock in debt, and still borrowing to fund just about everything can ill-afford the luxury of 1400 plus delegates to COP28. It is absolutely ridiculous.

The poor gas lighting by propagandists that several interests were invited by the UN hence the large delegation from Nigeria is untenable. Was Nigeria the only Country invited? How come we had the largest delegation surpassing China, India and Indonesia? O what a tangled web we weave when first we practice to deceive. - Sir Walter Scott. Stop the Lies, Folks. Stop Plundering Our Collective Patrimony. Stop the Wastage. NO SANE GOVERNMENT BORROWS FOR PROFLIGACY AND WASTE. If you can't govern, QUIT.

Prof Chris Mustapha Nwaokobia Jnr.

When he was the head of the Apex Bank, he was surrounded and sought after by people he thought were friends. His freedom is now stalled because no one wants to provide the 'small' amount of money or stake his C of O for a bail bond....Where are the Businessmen, where are the Senators, where are the Cabals, where are the top politicians, where are the Anchor farmers, where are the Suit wearing Banking CEOs, Where are all those who gave him awards upon awards, Where are the beneficiaries and all those he helped or enriched? This is a lesson in life for everyone. DONT COUNT YOUR FRIENDS UNTIL WHEN YOU NEED THEM.

Dear Editor

Matawalle is to be blamed.

I disagree with you on some area in your cover story. In as much as I agree that the two gladiators are brothers from the same state, the former governor has no right to take away all the vehicles in the Government House because he lost the election and another party is taking over. After all he was the one that won election on the platform of PDP and decamped to the APC. He came to serve his people and that does not entitle him to pack everything he met in the Government House as if they were his personal properties. If his predecessors had emptied the government House how would he have felt? Serving the people does not mean that you will appropriate the resources and wealth of the people to yourself. To be candid with you Matawalle may even be richer than the whole state because most of us who are indigenes know some of his business interest besides his much vaunted car business. The few pictures your magazine carried about the Zamfara Cargo airport show that only preliminary works have been done. I can say that less than 20 percent of the work has been done. So how can he justify the huge amount of money expended so far? I will encourage you and your crew members to come to Zamfara state and see what is on ground. His administration tried in some areas but that does not warrant him carting away everything he met in Government House. This is my own take. He should apologise to the incumbent Governor.
