

TGWAC: (Teenage Guide with Aunty Comfort)

RAISING A GODLY GENERATION

TGWAC (Teenage Guide with Aunty Comfort); a social reorientation forum where we raise and orient teenagers to be godly, positive minded and focused in achieving their dream.

LIVING A FULFILLING LIFE AS A TEENAGER

There is no time to waste.

There is no time to waste.

There is no time to waste.

Did you catch that line? Please, reflect again.

Are You Still a Virgin?"

Now, this isn't about sex. This is about your Purpose Box given to you by God on the day you were born into this planet.

In the story, the girl was busy asking her mother for money to host her next birthday party but when the mother asked her if she was still a 'purpose' virgin, it was shameful that she was still a Purpose Virgin.

I mean, she was the exact person she was on her last birthday.

No change!

No new achievement!

No personal development!

This is an error.

Listen up, friends!

Before you start throwing a birthday party, ask yourself if that birthday is worth celebrating. Yes, it's awesome to celebrate the gift of life but have you been living a fulfilling life?

If you have failed to maximise your potentials or at least, invest in being better than who you were on your last birthday, you should postpone that party and fix your purpose virginity.

Sadly, many people still haven't broken their talent boxes. They are still Purpose Virgins who have refused to open up themselves and discover what they were born to do.

Many who should have reached out to humanity through great books are still Purpose Virgins.

"I have the dream of becoming a great author but I don't know how to begin." They say!

Well, what have you done about it?

Have you sought expert insight on book publishing? Thankfully, you have me to talk to about this. I've trained many on this.

"I have a dream of being a renowned public speaker who would impact thousands of lives, but I am shy."

You say!

Lo! Do you know that I was once a chronic introvert who liked to stay indoors always? However, I knew the world and God expected more from me. That was why I deliberately eliminated shyness.

The world and your Creator expect more from you. Before you celebrate your next birthday,

THINK DEEPLY ABOUT YOUR LIFE'S JOURNEY SO FAR.

Do you even know that by mere breaking your purpose virginity, your new personality indirectly brings you income apart from the beauty of making God proud of you?

"I have a dream of becoming this or that but..."

"

Excuses upon excuses!

"BUT(s)" have ruined many great dreams.

Break your purpose virginity and start living your dreams. You can't afford to live an average life.

Start pursuing your dreams early such that people begin to wonder how old you are that you are commanding such attention with your impact.

Start working hard towards becoming an ASSET because in reality,

NOBODY LOVES A LIABILITY.

Know that you owe humanity a lot and it would be a waste of who you are not to know who you are.

Before you start getting motivated by "the past is in the past, and you can rewrite your past," be intentional about your present which will eventually become the past in your future.

The hard truth?

There are some mistakes of your past that you'd spend the rest of your life facing their consequences. Just so you know, you cannot afford to do anyhow.

Yes, you can mess up and ask for forgiveness or repent. However, the state of a squeezed paper is never the same as when it was plain. You can decide to straighten the paper, but it won't be as plain as it was.

Believe me, I also preach the message of leaving the past in the past.

We all make some mistakes out of ignorance.

However, now you have heard the word,

START NOW BECAUSE THERE IS NO TIME TO WASTE AGAIN.

You can pick up your broken pieces right now and reinvent yourself. It is 100% Possible.

My point is that you should be aware that the present will eventually become your past in future. How are you living your life now?

You think you have all day to make terrible mistakes, right? No!

The right things to do are always the hardest things to do. Let them call you boring. You know where you're going in life; they probably don't.

If you allow peer pressure to ruin your future and life ambitions, it's your fault.

You don't want to be in your future one day and regret what you did or didn't do today (your past by then).

Take a moment to meditate on what life really means to you.

Have a clear purpose for your life.

Focus on your goals in life.

Avoid irrelevant distractions.

Make quality friends. If your friends ain't talking about business, the future of work, legitimate investments, career advancement, personal development, hard work, commitment, moral values, integrity, and the like, you're setting yourself up for regrets in future.

Follow us on youtube: Teenageguide. Instagram: @teensguidewithauntycomfort.

www.tgwac.org. facebook; tgwac, Nairapen.tgwac